

FOCUS

A look at what's happening with OU Physicians and staff

November 2009

Webber Honored With Grand Prize

Diana Webber, M.S., A.R.N.P., OU Children's Physicians Community Pediatrics, was selected as the grand prize winner of the 2009 Cherokee Inspired Comfort Award, in its Advanced Practice Nurse category.

Diana accepted the award during a recent ceremony held at the OU Children's Physicians Latino Clinic. Paul Darden, M.D., section chief, General and Community Pediatrics, made the presentation. Among Diana's accomplishments cited in her selection for the award is the establishment of a free clinic in her rural hometown of Atoka, Oklahoma. With local support, and as a result of Diana's tireless effort and leadership, the Hope Medical Clinic opened its doors in October 2008. The non-profit, free clinic provides services to the uninsured in the community. A previous award recipient commented on Diana's work: "A clinic of this nature doesn't touch just one generation. Its impact is far-reaching and ongoing."

In addition to a beautiful crystal award like the one pictured at right, as the grand prize winner Diana also receives an all-expenses-paid Caribbean cruise for two; Cherokee wardrobe and footwear valued at more than $1,000 and a commemorative pin.

At left: Dianna Webber, center, with Marianne Dunlap, M.D., OU Children's Physicians pediatrician, left, and Paul Darden, M.D., section chief, General and Community Pediatrics, right.

Pictured above: Physicians and staff of the Latino Clinic, front row left to right are Gloria Hernandez, Lisa Hernandez, Gloria Mendez, Ana Fernandez and Petra Guzman. On the back row, left to right, are Marianne Dunlap, M.D., Diana Webber, Dayma Gonzalez and Jessica Brown, M.D.

Cherokee Inspired Comfort is a designer and manufacturer of uniforms and scrubs for health care professionals. The Cherokee Inspired Comfort Award was created to bring recognition to health care workers across the country who provide exceptional service, sacrifice and innovative care to their patients.